

【Vol.1】 Report from Tomonori Shibata

It is the first time for me to stay a foreign country for long-term. In this first report, I would like to introduce my life in Bordeaux.

My home in Bordeaux is an international residence where many researchers with various backgrounds live, and is located close to the city central. In this residence, an exchange meeting was held for promoting to interchange between international researchers, which was very nice opportunity for me.

Bordeaux is located in southwest of France and is well known for its wines. There are many chateaus in Bordeaux and you can visit chateaus and enjoy wine tasting. In fact, I visited several chateaus in Medoc, Saint-Émilion, Sauternes and Graves areas. In Bordeaux, a large-scale wine festival is held once in two years. Luckily, I was able to go to the festival held in 2018 and enjoyed many kinds of wines.

In the next report, I am going to report my lab life in University of Bordeaux. Finally, I would like to be thankful to all the people who support me for study abroad.
